BENNY OWENS COMPLAINS.

Thinks the Sooners Didn't Have Square Deal in Topeka.

Norman, Okla., Dec. 5.—Key Wolf, Oklahoma's big tackle, who will give the rest of the Missouri valley men a hard race for all star honors, has been elected captain of the Sooner football team for 1908. For three years Wolf has played on the Oklahoma eleven. Until he came to Norman from Davis, his home, he had never witnessed a game of football. Owens saw at once his value and "Benny's" training and coaching has developed the big Indian as one of the surest and fastest tackles in the Missouri valley.

In the Oklahoma-Washburn game last Thursday Wolf was called back of the line repeatedly to carry the ball Norman, Okla., Dec. 5 .- Key Wolf,

Kansas City, Dec. 5.-A Kansan was Kansas City, Dec. 5.—A Kansan was in Kansas City, Dec. 5.—A Kansan was in Kansas City last night on his way to Washington. He's Joseph L. Bristow of Salina and he's to make a report on a little matter to William Howard Taft, secretary of war. And the port on a little matter to William Howard Taft, secretary of war. And the less of these. It is needless, almost, to speak of the report may with he yearthy to the little lay. So extensively has the book of

Mr. Bristow two years ago on trade conditions in Panama, the government may increase its control of steamships and railroads so as to make a govern-ment water and rail line from New York by way of Colon and Panama to Seattle.

When Secretary Taft was in Seattle on his way to the Orient he sent a commissioner to Mr. Bristow to investicommissioner to Mr. Bristow to investigate conditions on the Pacific coast. Secretary Taft said that the service afforded by the Pacific Mail Steamship line was very unsatisfactory and that he was considering the advisability of establishing a steamship line on the Pacific coast to be operated by the Panama Railroad company. The Panama Railroad company is a corporation, all of the stock of which is held by Secretary Taft as agent of the government.

The investigation asked for was practically a continuation of the investiga-tion made by Mr. Bristow two years ago. At that time Mr. Bristow recom-mended that the government continue the operation of the Panama railroad as a commercial line, and the steam-ship line between New York and Colon, the Atlantic terminal of the Panami railroad. He further recommended tha if satisfactory service could not be had between Panama, the Pacific coast terminal of the Panama railroad and Seattle, that the government take up the operation of coast steamers to the operation of coast steamers to transport mail, freight and passengers between Panama, San Diego, San Pe-dro, San Francisco and other Pacific coast points. The government adopted the suggestions contained in the report as far as the operation of the Atlantic coast line and the Panama railroad was concerned, and left the Pacific coast traffic with the Pacific Mail line. This service has proved unsatisfactory from many standpoints. Competition has been throttled by Harriman, and the situation is not pleasing to the government. Hence Mr. Bristow's commission as special Panama commissioner was renewed.

If the government should decide to operate a steamship line on the Pacific coast it will disturb some very profit-able business that is now enjoyed by the Harriman interests. Under the old Miss Alma Allen of Parsons, Kan., will come here the first of next week to stay until Christmas with her grandmother, Mrs. N. Allen of North Madison street.

For the Pacific coast by way of Panama. Incidentally the Harriman interests have discouraged the shipment of all transcontinental freight by the Panama railroad route. Their operation of the Pacific Mall has just been enough to keep out other lines and to exercise a leverage to keep up transcontinental railway rates. With the government operating a water and rail when the canal is completed an all water route, the influence on transcontinental freight rates is obvious. It will nental freight rates is obvious. It will mean a material reduction in the rates charged for all classes of freight, except perishable freight and that requircept perishable freight and that requiring speedy transportation.

It Hinges on Bristow's Report.

It is these conditions that are being investigated by Mr. Bristow and his report will deal with the phase of the subject whether the government is justified in expending several million dollars and establishing what would be, in fact, a government commercial steamship line.

"I cannot talk about my mission." Mr.

"I cannot talk about my mission," Mr. Bristow said at the Union depot last night. "I have been making my investigation and am going to Washington to see the interstate commerce commission and complete my report. I expect to meet Secretary Taft, when he returns from abroad, either in New York or Washington. I do not know how long I will be concerned with the matter and do not know when my em-ployment with the government will

ANNUL VIADUOT CONTRACT.

Council Will Take Extreme Action Against Contractors.

At a meeting of the streets and walks committee of the city council, held Wednesday night, the committee voted to recommend that the council annul the contract now held by the Topeka Bridge & Iron company for the reconstruction of the East Sixth avenue via duct across the Santa Fe tracks. Th duct across the Santa Fe tracks. The contract specified that the work on this viaduct should be completed July 1, 1907. That was five months ago and the work is not more than half com-Councilman C. E. Jordan, of the Firs ward, at the council meeting last Monday night, introduced a resolution that the contract with the builders on this viaduct be annuled. The resolution was referred to the committee on streets and walks and last night that committee voted in favor of the resolution. It is understood that the contractors will appear before the city council at its next meeting and state the reasons for delaying the work. The committee voted in favor of allowing the Topeka Railway company and the Atchison, Topeks & Santa Fe company the right to construct a viaduct over the Santa Fe tracks at Branner street, providing that the company construct a sidewalk on one side of the viaduct the entire length of the viaward, at the council meeting last Mon

The committee recommended for passage the ordinance against the sweeping or washing of streets in the business district between the hours of 7:45 a.m. and 6 p. m. The penalty for the viola-tion of this proposed ordinance is a fine of from $1 to $5 for each offense.

AT THE THEATERS.

A large audience was drawn to the Grand last night by Thomas Dixon's "The Clansman" and it must have been disappointed in the presentation of the play by the company, of which such great things were promised. It has been said that the same company is to be taken on a three years' tour of Europe and other distant places on the globe. Surely this is due to the imagination of the advance agent. If it is not then it is due to remarkably poor judgment on the part of those who are backing the show. For it is just as certain as anything can be that the company interpreting the plece this season will never make any kind of a company interpreting the piece this season will never make any kind of a hit abroad and it will not make many hits at home. Only three or four of the tow of Salina and he's to make a report on a little matter to William Howard Taft, secretary of war. And the report may not be exactly to the liking of E. H. Harriman and his associates. Mr. Bristow said he couldn't discuss his mission last night but this is the story:

On the report that Mr. Bristow will make to Secretary Taft depends a project which has for its purpose the wresting of the control of transcontinental freight rates from Mr. Harriman and his associates. If the report that the same time it tells a brutal tale, one that might perhaps have better been left untoid and unplayed. The play is interesting in the depicting certain conditions in the unplayed. The play is interesting in depicting certain conditions in the southland immediately after the great war, but interesting as it is in some particulars, the average person will leave the theater, after seeing it, with a bad taste in his mouth.

"In The Bishop's Carriage," Chan-

ning Pollock's stage story of Miss Miriam Michelson's famous novel, which will be presented at the Grand which will be presented at the Grand tonight, is destined to be more than a ripple in the season's dramatic events. "In The Bishop's Carriage" serves adequately the purpose of pro-viding entertainment for those who like strong, natural plays, played by good actors with plenty of heart in-terest and the phantom of a prescholterest, and the phantom of a psychol-ogical problem. It is a variant of the Leah Kleschna and Raffles themes. with much virtue in construction, and any quality of brightness of dialogue and tenseness of situation. The play opens just after Nance Oiden has robbed Edward Ramsay, the tipsy broker, at the Grand Central station, and his made her escape in Bishop Van Wagenen's carriage. The good Van Wagenen's carriage. The good bishop, in his solicitude for the girl whose brain he believes to be affected, whose brain he believes to be affected, and who has won his kindly heart by pretending to mistake him for her father, takes her to the Pelham home of his friend, Mrs. Ramsay. Nance goes willingly enough, little expecting that she is being taken to the home of the man she has just robbed, or of the man she has just robbed, or that she will find there her friend Tom Dorgan, playing the role of waiter, and keeping his eyes and pockets open for any stray articles of value that may be left lying about. The only one of the party at Ramsay's who sees through Nance's and Tom's little game, is Latimer, an up-to-date man of the world, with plenty of money and too much leisure which he deand too much leisure which he devotes chiefly to the study of criminology. Interested as he is in the subject, he is peculiarly attracted to Nance. He compels Nance and Dorgan to disgorge their thefts, thereby gaining the hatred of the man, but as he also permits them to depart unmolested, he gains the thanks of the girl. In the next act Nance exhibits her gratitude by admitting Dorgan to Latimer's apartments, whither she has come to be reformed, but Latimer has come to be reformed, but Latimer catches them in the act of looting his rooms and turns the man over to Much interest centers in the forthcoming presentation here of "The Grand Mogul" at the Grand on Satur-day night, as it is the first work that the popular authors of "The Prince of day night, as it is the first work that the popular authors of "The Prince of Pilsen" have offered since that great success. "The Grand Mogul" is a modern, up to date musical comedy, in which neither comedy nor music is lacking, and interpreted by the best company of singers, players and dancers that Klaw & Erlanger have ever organized. The cast of 100 singers and comedians is headed by Frank Moulan, who has the best part that has fallen to his lot since his initial success as the Sultan of Sulu. The present production has had the stage direction of Herbert Gresham; the scenery was painted by Ernest Albert, a master of the brush, and the gorgeous costumes are from original designs by F. Richard Anderson. The scenes of "The Grand Mogul" are laid in Honolulu and in the Island of Inde. in Honolulu and in the Island of Inde.
